

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

Wednesday, March 3, 2010

Hunter, Phoenix rebrand

Manhattan-based commercial brokerage firm The Hunter Organization and Phoenix Asset Management have joined forces under the Coldwell Banker Commercial banner as the flagship office in Manhattan, operating as Coldwell Banker Commercial Hunter Phoenix.

The Hunter Realty Organization led by Peter Sabesan and Richard Selig, has been a major presence in Manhattan office and retail leasing since 1997.

Phoenix Asset Management, headed by Barry and Brad Pincus, is responsible for more than seven million square feet of commercial real estate nationwide, including The Woolworth Building.

“Commercial real estate increasingly requires a global network and we have found an opportune way to expand our reach,” said Sabesan.

